“You’re body’s topsy-turvy,” explained a gentle voice.

“Now’s the time to slow things down,
not make a lot of noise.

“You’re the star attraction,”
said the big brown bear called Pru, “What are the children going to think if they can’t have fun with you?”

“What joy is it to see you kip or hear your snoring wheeze, when you know your job is swinging - jumping sprightly through the trees.”

Mo hugged Pru and thanked her,
and when the bear had gone...

...the monkey got his PJ's and pulled them snugly on.
